The online resources listed below can be found through the University of Toronto Library online catalogue. Links to each resource are also provided on the research guide for this course located at: https://guides.library.utoronto.ca/vic184H

All the online resources listed here are accessible to registered U of T students and can be searched on campus or at home. For remote access, see: https://onesearch.library.utoronto.ca/myaccess

Encyclopedias, Dictionaries and Directories

Whenever you are exploring a topic for the first time, encyclopedias and dictionaries can help you identify some of the central issues, provide an overview of the topic and suggest some of the best keywords for searching. They may also suggest other sources that may be useful.

Canadian Encyclopedia Online

Canadian Who's Who. Index 1898-1984: incorporating Canadian men and women of the time
F1033 .C23 Pratt Reference

Dictionary of Canadian Biography Online

Oxford Companion to Canadian History [Online] also F1006.O9 2004 Pratt Reference

Who's who in Canada F1033.W62 Pratt Reference

Article Databases

America History and Life
The major source for articles on the history and culture of the United States and Canada from prehistoric times to the present. It is an excellent source for research in the fields of American and Canadian history, popular culture, American studies, women's studies/gender studies, multicultural studies, politics and other fields of study.

Canadian Periodical Index (CPLQ)
An important database for Canadian topics, covering other subjects as they appear in Canadian journals and magazines. CPL.Q provides access to a broad range of journals and magazines, mainly published in Canada. It includes the full text of selected sections of The Globe and Mail from 1997+

CBCA (Canadian Business and Current Affairs) Complete
A comprehensive database for information on Canadian topics, CBCA Complete combines content from four specialized databases, including business, current events, education and reference. Subject coverage is broad and covers both academic information and main stream sources. CBCA Complete indexes journals, popular magazines and newspapers, approximately 90% of which are published in Canada.

Libris Canadiana
An online index to early Canadian serial publications such as the Canadian Magazine, Macleans Magazine and Saturday Night. Generally coverage is from the late nineteenth or early twentieth century to the mid-twentieth century.
E-Newspapers

Canada's Heritage from 1844: The Globe and Mail
The electronic full-page newspaper archive of The Globe and Mail from June 1844 to the end of 2011. Coverage includes all the stories, plus thousands of images, advertisements, classifieds, political cartoons, births and deaths from more than 1.4 million pages of Canada's National Newspaper, dating back to the pre-confederation era.

Archives

Archeion: Ontario's Archival Information Network
http://www.archeion.ca/
Provides information about archival collections throughout the province of Ontario

Archives Canada: Canadian Archival Information Network
http://www.archivescanada.ca
A gateway to archival collections across Canada

Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library
http://fisher.library.utoronto.ca
Provides access to finding aids for archival collections housed at the Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library at the University of Toronto

University of Toronto Archives http://utarms.library.utoronto.ca/about Located on the fourth floor of the Thomas Fisher Rare Book Library, it forms part of the Fisher Library. The U of T archives provides access to records of individuals and organizations associated with the University.

Discover Archives
https://discoverarchives.library.utoronto.ca/
A shared portal for exploring archival holdings at the University of Toronto and its federated colleges. The database contains descriptions of material related to the University of Toronto's history, as well as records from private individuals, families, businesses, and organizations.